

Your Passage Partner for End-Of-Life Support.

Who I am

I'm Todd VanOrden-Scranton, an INELDA-trained End-of-Life Doula and the founder of Gentle Passage. As a "passage partner," I provide compassionate, non-medical support to individuals and families in the Lowcountry during life's final transitions. My role is to help you navigate this journey with dignity, peace, and personalized care, complementing the medical support provided by hospice or palliative care teams.

My Role

- Be a supportive presence, listening to your needs and concerns.
- Advocate for your preferences, such as room setup, who's present, or where you would like to be during your final moments.

Services I Offer

- Emotional Support: I hold space for you and your loved ones, helping you process feelings and navigate difficult conversations about end-of-life wishes.
- Legacy Planning: I create lasting memories through projects like memory quilts, recorded life stories, or video sessions to capture precious moments.
- Vigil Sitting: I offer a comforting presence during your final moments, ensuring you're not alone and your wishes are honored.
- Family Support: I assist families with anticipatory grief, providing guidance and a mediator's perspective to ease tensions and ensure everyone's needs are met.
